RBF Consulting (RBF) offers a full spectrum of Land Development services to national and international clients encompassing projects that range from residential subdivisions, commercial and industrial complexes, to full-scale world class destination resorts, landmark recreational and award winning educational facilities.

Land Development has been a cornerstone of RBF over the past sixty years, giving the firm the depth of experience and level of expertise needed to approach and form solutions to any land development challenge. Components of the firm's commercial and industrial services include commercial, retail, hotel, restaurant, entertainment and industrial uses. Residential components include single family, multi-family and master planned communities. Recreational projects have included parks, golf courses and entertainment parks. Educational projects range from K-12 schools to college campuses.

Engineering design solutions are provided to meet the client's needs in the many complex areas of the land development process, from project inception to occupancy. RBF's engineering involvement can begin at the origination of the project with the clients' due diligence. RBF professionals assist clients with land use and site planning. The diversity of the firm's staff allows RBF to provide construction documents for virtually any type of construction. The RBF team also includes professionals who assist the client through the maze of permit requirements.
